

Dayanand Medical College & Hospital Ludhiana

July 1, 2008

Introductory Session for PG Students held on Doctors Day at DMCH

On the occasion of Doctor's day today, DMCH organized the introductory session for the PG residents of Batch 2008 in Dumra Auditorium. All the residents were introduced to the senior faculty members, followed by issuing of log books for the post-graduate students.

During the session, Principal of DMCH- Dr. Daljit Singh highlighted the important requirements for the completion of post-graduate course. He discussed about the various deadlines regarding the thesis plan submission and thesis submission. He elaborated on the need for logbook and gives various tips and other information useful for the successful completion of postgraduate courses.

This was followed by the lecture by Dr S.C Chopra, Dean Academics, DMCH in which he talked about various essential workshops in which proficiency is mandatory for all post graduates mainly computer workshops, CPR, Bio statistics, Thesis plan & written workshops. He also discussed the various central teaching session in which the attendance of PG is mandatory.

Then Dr R.S.Chhina highlighted the importance of documentation and gave tips regarding file maintaining, filling up of investigation form and certificates. He also highlighted the common errors that need to be avoided

The session ended with a vote of thanks.